Culture of Dahlias

The Dahlia is one of the easiest of all flowers to cultivate and will produce more flowers than any other plant grown, flowering all summer and Fall if the simple cultural directions are followed closely. They can be grown in any good garden soil, but if possible, plant in an open, sunny situation. Prepare the soil thoroughly by digging 12 to 18 inches deep in the Fall, if possible, and again in the Spring. Plant any time between April 20th and June 15th, digging holes 6 inches deep and from 3 to 4 feet apart. Then lay in the tuber flat on its side, the side of which makes no difference as long as it has one strong eye or sprout. Cover 3 inches deep, thus leaving the hole one half full, to be filled after plant comes up 6 or 8 inches above the ground.

As soon as the plant is large enough, cut out the top of it just above the second or third set of leaves which causes the plant to grow a stout branch, at the base of each of the four or six leaves left. Just as soon as the plants are up the most important thing to do is to keep the soil loose and mellow by hoeing or cultivating once or twice a week, and just as soon after each rain as the soil will permit. As soon as the buds appear, stop all cultivation and give the beds a mulch of rotted manure, leaves, etc. Water the beds and plants thoroughly once or twice a week, and especially during the dry weather. Tie each plant to a strong stake so it may have a strong support. To have the greatest success is to keep them growing but as strong and sturdy as possible. Never allow the faded flowers to remain on the plant, but cut them off with as much stem or stalk as you can. have larger blooms it is necessary to disbud, leaving the center bud, and taking off the side ones, leaving a stem approximately 18 inches long. Dahlias will continue to bloom until a heavy frost kills the tops in late Fall, after which the tops are cut off and the roots are dug and stored in a frost-proof cellar or basement, covering with dry soil, sand or anything that will keep them from shriveling. Divide in the Spring after the eyes begin to show.

You must be Satisfied. We want to make good.

Dahlias of our Introduction

Dahlia Mrs. E. A. Asmus

Mrs. E. A. Asmus. A true rose pink, the flower borne on long stiff stems, a Decorative of medium size, especially adapted for cut flowers for florists' use. An excellent keeper, wonderful free bloomer, and splendid bedding variety. Awarded Certificate of Merit, at College Park, Md., trial gardens, receiving 90 points. Prof. J. P. S. Norton says it is one of the few good pinks.

Tubers $5.00 each

Belvedere

Belvedere (D.) Rich carmine, a garden and exhibition variety. A splendid exhibition variety; the flowers can be had nine inches in diameter without disbudding, and are held erect on very stiff stems. A very free bloomer. Awarded Certificate of Merit by The Dahlia Society of California. Tubers $7.50

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18, 1924

E. A. Asmus, Belvedere, California.

Dear Sir:

At the grounds of the Southern Trial Gardens A. D. S. I was very much pleased with a handsome big red Dahlia, "Belvedere" of which you are the introducer. I am writing to inquire whether you may have a root or two, or a half dozen that you would dispose of, and the price of same. It is certainly a fine dark red.

Very sincerely

J. H. K.

Dahlia Gordon Blanding

Dahlia Gordon Blanding. Pronounced by experts to be one of the finest Decorative Peony Dahlias. It is large and full, measuring nine inches in diameter. The color is that of the La France rose, of fine substance; a variety quite distinctive in the Dahlia family. It is medium to tall, vigorous grower and a prolific grower. The stems are long and strong, holding the large flowers erect above a vigorous plant. A valuable and useful cut and exhibition variety. Awarded Certificate of Merit by the American Dahlia Society and the Dahlia Society of California and other high honors wherever exhibited. Selected field grown tubers $5.00 each

Hilton Dahlia Farm, Hilton, N. J. October 6, 1924

We have your Gordon Blanding. It certainly is fine and does well in the East.

- In u'inde. (H. C.) The acme of perfection in a Dahlia. Its color is a rich golden orange suffused with bronze and apricot shadings. The flowers are carried on the top of the stems like Chrysanthemums. $1.50
- Jersey's Beauty (Waite) Awarded highest honors whenever exhibited in strongest competition. Rated highest of any Dahlia, at Experimental Garden of the American Dahlia Society. A variety of supreme merit and one that is really perfect. No other Dahlia, so far introduced, can measure up to it; it is the standard by which to judge all others. A magnificent grower, making no superfluous wood. Every shoot runs away and carries a perfect flower that can be cut with a long stem. Unbeaten as a laster, whether cut with one foot or seven foot stems, the blooms never go back on you. The color is a real pink, not lavender or lilac, and with ordinary culture, five or more large flowers are borne on a plant at one time.
- Kitty Dunlap. A Decorative of American Beauty Rose shade, producing huge exhibition blooms. The stems are very long and wiry; a real acquisition and can be recommended for any purpose. $4.00
- La Favorita (H. C.) A splendid variety of brilliant orange. Good for cutting. $1.00
- Mrs. John K. Allen. (D.) This new creation was originated by Mr. C. J. Morton of Dorchester, Mass. Flowers are large and attractive; petals are long, narrow and semi-quilled with a slight twist towards outer edge. Coloring is a two-toned effect, a light cardinal red with yellow reverse. Extra good keeping quality, stems strong, holding the flowers erect. Blooms very early and is a free flowerer. A variety very much admired. Tubers $2.50 each

Seedling Dahlias California Hybridized Dahlia Seed

This seed is scientifically bred, and is raised from California's finest and largest prize-winning varieties, which are the finest in the world. This mixture contains all types and colors. Our rainless summers around San Francisco Bay makes it possible to produce hybridized seed of the very highest quality. Dahlias grow very easily from seed and new varieties are produced in this manner.

The seed we have sent out in previous years have produced many superior varieties, of which some of the letters attached bear testimony.

Richmond, Virginia Broad Street Station, Feb. 14th, 1924.

E. A. Asmus, Belvedere, California.

I am writing to let you know about the Dahlia seed I bought from you last year. I had some won-derful colors and they stood our hot summer fine and deful colors and they stood our hot summer line and they were admired by thousands of travellers who pass through our station. I am expecting them to show up very good this year. Would have written you sooner but lost your address and had to wait until your advertisement appeared in the Florists' Review. Send me 500 of the Best Private Stock seed you have at $3.00 per 100 seeds, as I want to create a demand for your seed in this district.

Yours very truly
